

Top Private Arab Companies Making an Impact

June 10, 2015

At a glittering awards ceremony held in Dubai's business district, Forbes Middle East celebrated the best-performing companies in the region and revealed the much-awaited ranking of the Top Companies in the Arab World 2015.

With a guest list boasting some of the Middle East's most influential names in business, the event held at The Oberoi, Dubai, honored the region's most formidable corporations,

The evening also celebrated the Top Private Arab Companies Making an Impact, also featured in the Forbes Middle East June edition. Though not publicly listed, these homegrown businesses are nevertheless helping to shape the future of Arab economies. Companies from this list awarded at the event included Saudi Oger, Ajlan & Bros, American University of the Middle East (AUM) and Paris Gallery Group. Following the awards ceremony, the month's edition of Forbes Middle East was revealed on stage.

Saudi Oger's Chief Operating Officer Nabeel Al Rekhaimi received the prize on behalf of Saudi Oger. Mr. Al Rekhaimi thanked Forbes Middle East for recognizing Saudi Oger efforts and contribution to the Construction industry in the region, he also thanked the 50000 employees of Saudi Oger who made this possible .

Nabeel Al Rekhaimi
Chief Operating Officer